

Humiliation and the Colonial Condition in Kenya

Dr. Brett Shadle

September 22, 2011
Giffels Auditorium
4:00-5:00 pm

Sponsored by the Department of History and the African and African American Studies Program

Brett Shadle is Associate Professor of African History at Virginia Tech. He received his Ph.D. from Northwestern University in 2000, and has also taught at Bowdoin College and the University of Mississippi. Shadle has published several articles and a book on marriage, colonialism, and the law in Kenya. He is currently writing a book on the culture of white settlers in early colonial Kenya, and, a more long term project, a history of sexual violence in Kenya.