Andalusi and Sefardi Exceptionalism

Thursday, March 1 4:00 PM in GEAR 258
refreshments will be served
free and open to the public

AI-Andalus - conventionally called Islamic Spain, Muslim Spain or more problematically Arab Spain and Moorish Spain - is commonly identified by scholars and frequently celebrated in popular culture as the site of an extraordinary, extended moment of complex social interaction, cultural ferment, creativity and transfer among the Muslims, Christians, and Jews of the medieval Iberian Peninsula. This talk explores the origins and significance of this trope during the classical age of Islam.

Dr. Ross Brann is the Milton R. Konvitz Professor of Judeo-Islamic Studies at Cornell University and a Stephen H. Weiss Fellow

Sponsored by: Comparative Literature and Cultural Studies and the King Fahd Center for Middle East Studies with support from Jewish Studies, Medieval and Renaissance Studies, Religious Studies, the UI of A Honors College, and the Fulbright Honors Program

479-575-7580 or 479-575-4373 for more information